Author support program

Are you writing a book that features Stata programs or output—or even Stata itself? Are you in the planning stages? Do you already have a publisher? Are you about to go to press?

Whatever the situation, we can help. It all starts when you join StataCorp's Author Support Program.

Why join?

StataCorp's Author Support Program is free and offers the following services:

Stata professionals will review your Stata code and output to ensure that they are efficient and reflect modern usage.

Stata production specialists will help you format Stata output (including graphs and tables) to appear in your book.

Stata experts and statisticians will review and ensure the accuracy of Stata-related content.

How does it work?

The best way to use StataCorp's Author Support Program is as you go. Send us drafts of chapters as you produce them, and we'll advise you on your usage of Stata—and alert you about upcoming changes to Stata that might affect your book.

The Author Support Program focuses on Stata usage. If you wish, your editor can also arrange a substantive review by professionals at StataCorp.

Upon publication, we will review your book for inclusion in the Stata Bookstore—reaching thousands of professional researchers and Stata users.
